

From Paradox to Absurdity:

The Metaphor Apher.

With the guidance of my legal counsel, I have developed a great insight.

I have transgressed. Upon reflection I now recognise that my choice of metaphor included a suggestion of physical threat.

This was wrong of me.

In the spontaneity of the moment I was remiss. As a result of this mistake that I made, there is a small chance that Mr. W may construe a real threat to his nether regions.....

The fear of impending anal disrepair may lead to nightmares, panic attacks, sleeplessness, and an inability to form relationships without his back to the wall.....

I have attempted to apologise to Mr W about my threat to his bum, but am not sure if he has received the same. I will welcome the opportunity to apologise to him at the Hearing.

I expect my 'striking off' will need to be done in a public place, encircled by chairs so that Nursing Council can sit whilst they knit.....

O woe...O woe ....I am undone!!....
